THE FAITH OF FATHER ABRAHAM

Theme of a Discourse by Pastor Young of First Methodist Church.

CAUSED HIM TO DO THINGS.

New Pastor of Westminster Fresby terian Church Speaks on Forbearance and Love.

Rev. Benjamin Young, preached yesterday morning, in the First Methodist church, from the text, "By faith Abraham, when he was called to go into a place which he should after receive, obeyed. For he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God." Heb. xi: 10, 11. In the course of his remarks, the speaker sald

"To cut away from hallowed associations always means a tension on the heart strings. Historians describe a pathetic picture of a group of homely, nonest folk looking across the German ocean to the Scrooby country of Eng-land, frm which they had been driven because of their Puritan notions. Some of them returned home to face the dark English prisons rather than endure the sufferings engendered by separation. When the higher call came to us, and we had to push out individually, the severance of some sacred ties brought pain. Abraham was human and the call to go out and make a new home in a strange country brought keen pangs to his heart. In the east he had been brought up. His nomadic life had made him familiar with its varied aspects. Here he had buried his father. Beneath its stars he had knelt to lie Canning, marshal; Mrs. H. M. Cushing, organist; John F. Hardin, sentinel.
At the conclusion of the ceremonies a fine banquet was served.

er. Beneath its stars he had offered his sacrifices. He was tranquil and happy. Suddenly this call comes to him to go to a strange land. That signified sacrifice. It meant a crisis in his experience. However, he did not gibble. He yielded prompt obedience. "He had an obedient faith. This was vital to him. It was the very essence of his religion. It was the element hich revealed the grip which religion had upon his soul. The fact of the divine request was sufficient for his obedience. He believed that God would only ask him to do what was best. He trusted the higher wisdom. He did not even wait to see the plan of his future unfolded to him. God called and he could afford to trust the issues of his life to His care. Now, there is a rare, bracing element in such a faith as this. We have experiences similar to this which came to the patriarch. When such come to us we ought to adjust ourselves to the imperiousness of the one grand call. A vital faith in God is wonderfully operative in subjective effect. The reflex action which comes from faith in a principle or in a persentity is always important in life. enality is always important in life This is shown in many great move ments of history. In the times pre liminary to the American Revolution certain great principles got hold of the American heart. Blackstone was not studied in vain by the colonists. The studied in vain by the colonists. The reflex action of this vital faith in principle was some spoiled tea in Charleston and a memorable tea party i Boston. So in life. Difficulties com and trial and suffering and embarrass-ment, but an intelligent faith in the divine gives one grit and nerve and ccurage and helps one to preserve his integrity and to play the man. Faith puts a song in the heart and gives one uplook and outlook." WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN

The new pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Rev. Mr. Davis oreached yesterday morning, from the xt, "Forbearing one another in love; and in the course of his discourse said

Forbearing, in the original means holding up,' or sustained. Hence, this a Christian duty. Church members not always do their duty, and do ot always do what they are taught to do by the minister. I have in mind the old minister who went to preach in a certain church. He preached the same sermon three successive Sundays. Then a committee called on him to expostulate. He answered them by say-ing that he was very well aware that he had preached the sermon three times, and as far as the sermon mak-iny practical effect on their daily lives was concerned he thought he would have to preach it still again.

Gravity is everywhere exerted in the physical world. So in the moral world there is a natural tendency lownward. It is the minister's duty o lift those who are drawn downward n the middle ages the spirit of the urch said, 'Take man out of the Ttake the world out of man. irst paradise was a garden, symbol if individual effort; the second paradise represented as a city-a great helpful community.

Prisoner's Wonderful Tale Regarding Layton Constable Was a Dizzy Fake.

From a report from Layton it appears that the story told to Jailer Bell, of the county jail, by Zear Miller, who scaped from the fail and then returnd and said that he had been arrested by a Layton constable and had escaped om that officer by filling him up with whisky and putting him to sleep, is without foundation and was wholly an invention of the prisoner. The facts n the case are altogether different rom what was told to Jailer Bell by Miller, who is now in custody at Fort Douglas on the charge of being a de-serter from the United States army.

The "News" is in receipt of a letter rom George W. Watt, the constable Layton, which gives the true facts the matter. It follows in part: "The whole story is a lie as I never arrested the man and if I had arrested him I would have had better sense than to drink with a man of that kind as I am not a drinking man. On Fri-came into our midst and was sick. He stayed at Mr. Evans' Friday night and on Saturday they took him to Ogden to a doctor, who said he had a bad case of pneumonia. They brought him back and I called the county comnissioners up and they told me to give also some money, which I did with instructions for him to go to the police station and they would care for him. "I believe this man's name was Miller and if it is the same man he must be crazy to tell Jaller Bell such a queer story. I wish the 'News' would make a denial of Miller's statement as I don't care to have my friends think I have been caught in a trap of this
